

SCHOLARLY COMMUNICATIONS EXPERTS DIRECTORY 2016-2017

Easily find experts in your network

 DIGITAL COMMONS™
powered by bepress

Welcome to the 2016 - 2017 Scholarly Community Experts Directory

Scholarly Communications is a rapidly growing field in library and academic sectors. In this directory you will find over 130 respondents sharing knowledge of 34 categories of Scholarly Communications, repository management and Digital Commons expertise. This directory provides a resource to connect with peers and find an expert no matter what your needs.

The directory is organized in two ways. The first section is organized by area of expertise and alongside that you'll find names of self-identified experts and other information such as FTE, Carnegie Class, and location. More detailed contact information is located in the second section, where each respondent is listed in alphabetical order along with his or her complete scholarly communications profile and selected publications related to that expertise.

We hope this will be a valuable resource for the community. For your additional reference we have released a digital version of the directory at digitalcommons.bepress.com/expertsdirectory. If you have any questions or comments about directory, or if you'd like to be included in the digital version, please don't hesitate to contact us at outreach@bepress.com.

Many of our respondents have additional levels of Digital Commons and SelectedWorks expertise and we have recognized their accomplishments in the directory with either a ● or a ★.

Digital Commons IR All-Star ★

Every year bepress recognizes four individuals from the Digital Commons community who have demonstrated a unique, high-impact, and replicable approach to IR success, and have made a meaningful contribution to the scholarly communications community as a whole.

Graduate of bepress University Repository Manager Certification Course ●

Bepress University is an intensive three-day workshop of institutional repository administrators held in our office in Berkeley, California. Attendees develop crucial skills and expertise in the area of repository management, library-based publishing and scholarly communications.

Graduate of bepress Kickstart ●

The Kickstart is a two-day onsite training available to Digital Commons customers. The Kickstart offers training in repository management, scholarly communications, and outreach to core library staff as well as general sessions for liaison librarians, faculty, and other university stakeholders.

AREAS OF EXPERTISE

We organized the 34 categories of expertise into four sections

Topics related to general repository management (the blue section); expertise supporting different kinds of content (the yellow section); expertise supporting various departments, organizations, or stakeholders (the purple section); and topics related to Digital Commons and SelectedWorks management (the red section).

Here you will find the names of each respondent who has identified as an expert in each category, along with his or her institution's location, FTE range, and Carnegie Class. Use this to reach out to experts at similar institutions, or to locate an expert in your area.
